When Opportunity Knocks – Monica Blair

As I was listening to the service a few weeks ago, and the preacher was preaching about opportunity -we are all invited to share our thoughts with others. So, now is the time to do so while you can. Don't put it off. For we know not what will happen next. When God calls us we can't tell him to wait, we are not ready, it does not work like that. You must be prepared. For lots of people were planning to do something this year and because of Covid everything got locked down. So I am asking you, if you've got something valuable to share that will encourage others to do good, please share it while opportunity knocks! For we do not know what the future holds for us.
