

Thought for the Day – Monday 4th October 2021

By Benjamin Kingsley-Scott

Climate change

We as Christians need to care about climate change because climate change is damaging God's creation and we must help and protect God's creation. Then, how can we say that we love God, when we are disobeying his word and breaking his creation?" Climate change is forcing world temperatures and rainfall to change. This has led to unprecedented hardship in less developed countries, this has led to many famines and many deaths. As well as human deaths, climate change is causing animal deaths. Climate change is destroying the oceans with rising sea levels and rising temperatures. Many animals by 2100 will be on the path to extinction and by then it will be too late to save them.

So what can we do, we can all try to not have more lights on at home if we are not using a room. It is simple things like that can and will make a small difference and if everyone does something it will all add up. This is a problem that needs to be addressed now, not in ten years time.